

W. Bradford Wilcox is Director of National Marriage Project at the University of Virginia, a Senior Fellow at the Institute for Family Studies, and a visiting scholar at the American Enterprise Institute. Prior to coming to the University of Virginia, he held research fellowships at Princeton University and Yale University. Professor Wilcox's research focuses on the quality and stability of family life in the United States, and on the links between family structure and economics. His research is featured regularly in The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, The Atlantic, NPR, and other media outlets. See W. Bradford Wilcox academic website.